

Orphan Child 7 19 15

A father to the fatherless,
You are the hope when hope seems lost
You hold the answers to all of life's questions
You love the orphan child

You're the love that's missing in this world
You're the glue that keeps families together; from falling apart
So many times, we lose our way with no one left to guide us
We feel like we are abandoned

You care for the orphan children of this world
You want to adopt them; into your royal family
You want to show them the real love of a Father
You won't let us go; you won't fail us

You want us to run to you not away
When we're lonely we tend to turn to other things
When we're feeling defeated when we are feeling discouraged
That people will know your love and turn to you
