

When will you? 10 23 09

A song about the church

When will she be ready for you
When will she be able to give everything to you
When will you return to take away your bride
When will you choose to make the church your own
She is being gathered
She is being molded into all you want her to be
She is waiting for you to take her home
She anticipates your return
She is being healed
Her time is coming
The opportunity for her to grow is now
She is moving because of you
When will you come back for her
When will you see in her what you've created for her to become
She will be ready; for you are preparing to take her home
Take away the veil that hides her from seeing you